1. VOCABULARY (27 points)

Read the text «Are the celebrities bad for you?» and choose the correct word to fill in the gaps: anxiety, harmless, appear, idolise, likely, soulmate, relationship, obsessed, worship.

Celebrities are everywhere nowadays: on TV, in magazines, online. Is this preoccupation with famous people (1) idolise fun or is it bad for us? How many people are truly (2) obsessed with modern media idols? And on the other side of the coin, can fame be harmful to the celebrities?

Studies suggest that the vast majority of teenagers do not really (3) worship celebrities. Researchers have identified three kinds of fans. About 15% of young people have an entertainment-social interest. They love chatting about their favorite celebrities with friends and does not (4) appear to do any harm.

Another 5% feel that they have an intense-personal (5) relationship with a celebrity. Sometimes they see them as their (6) soulmate and find that they are often thinking about them, even when they don't want to. These people are more at risk from depression and (7) anxiety.

If girls in this group (8) harmless a female star with a body they consider to be perfect, they are more (9) likely to be unhappy with their own bodies.

Read the article about robots and do the tasks below the article.

If you think of the jobs robots could never do, you would probably put doctors and teachers at the top of the list. It's easy to imagine robot cleaners and factory workers, but some jobs need human connection and creativity. But are we underestimating what robots can do? In some cases, they already perform better than doctors at diagnosing illness. Also, some patients might feel more comfortable sharing personal information with a machine than a person. Could there be a place for robots in education after all?

British education expert Anthony Seldon thinks so. And he even has a date for the robot takeover of the classroom: 2027. He predicts robots will do the main job of transferring information and teachers will be like assistants. Intelligent robots will read students' faces, movements and maybe even brain signals. Then they will adapt the information to each student. It's not a popular opinion and it's unlikely robots will ever have empathy and the ability to really connect with humans like another human can.

One thing is certain, though. A robot teacher is better than no teacher at all. In some parts of the world, there aren't enough teachers and 9–16 per cent of children under the age of 14 don't go to school. That problem could be partly solved by robots because they can teach anywhere and won't get stressed, or tired, or move somewhere for an easier, higher-paid job. Those negative aspects of teaching are something everyone agrees on. Teachers all over the world are leaving because it is a difficult job and they feel overworked. Perhaps the question is not 'Will robots replace teachers?' but 'How can robots help teachers?' Office workers can use software to do things like organise and answer emails, arrange meetings and update calendars. Teachers waste a lot of time doing non-teaching work, including more than 11 hours a week marking homework. If robots could cut the time teachers spend marking homework and writing reports, teachers would have more time and energy for the parts of the job humans do best.

1) Anthony Seldon thinks teachers in the future will ...

- A) help robots in class
- B) teach knowledge to students
- C) no longer exist

2) Robots will probably never ...

- A) have human understanding of emotions.
- B) be a popular choice for teachers.
- C) be intelligent enough to work in education.

3) Some parts of the world ...

- A) pay robots to teach.
- B) already use robots in teaching jobs.
- C) have a shortage of teachers.

4) Teachers ...

- A) work harder than office workers.
- B) have less help than office workers.
- C) leave their jobs to become office workers.

5) Robots could ...

- A) empathise with students.
- B) mark homework.
- C) prepare lessons.

6) It's easy to think robots

- A) will replace people even if we don't like the idea
- B) are more capable than people and it's true
- C) can do less than people but it's not always true

7. Most jobs seem as if they can be done by robots or computers.

True False

8. Robots are always better at diagnosing illnesses than doctors.

True False 9. Many experts agree robots will replace teachers by 2027.

VI. WRITING

Время выполнения: 30 минут

Максимальный балл – 10

You are going to write about reading books. The plan will help you:

- what kind of books modern teenagers enjoy reading;
- whether libraries are necessary nowadays or not and why;
- what book you have read recently, and what it was about;
- what your attitude to reading is.

You should write between 100-120 words.

Transfer your composition to the answer sheet.

Hello, today I want to talk about ^{witch books} prefer ^{modern} people. In my opinion modern people like a horror story because horror stories make a special vibe when you read this. You can feel scary, puzzled feelings.

I think libraries are not necessary. Because every book we can download in internet and read online.

Recently I read a book which calls „Monopami” on „homelies pod”. This story about Yato witch want wanted your own empire, but he wishes be a famous pod with million fans. One day, an schoolgirl Kiyomi save help life from a road accident at the cost of her birth life.

Of course I'm not reading very much, but I probably think that modern teenagers must read books and however witch genre it was.
